

Hard Deep Breaths

By Matthew Williams

I am;

Hiding;

Behind my own face;

The impossible man, I was told to create;

Don't think about different, It will just bring pain;

But what about this pain inside, My faltering lie suffocates me;

No 28-gage needle can cure my disease, Hidden from sight for too many years;

Fear and respect leave me to see, Every woman in another man's covers;

Show no feelings to say I'm okay All without a promise of change;

Denied intimacy, Because of my choice;

Losing all hope, Of saying "I do";

Will I ever Breathe;

Freely Too;